In partnership with members of Alberta Health Services, Covenant Health acknowledges the importance of providing continuous education opportunities for team members in the area of skin and wound care.

Our goal is to improve skin and wound care practice across the continuum of care within the organization and beyond and to lead in areas of skin safety, patient and family centered care and pressure injury prevention. We recognize that we have the opportunity to shape wound care practice by raising awareness of the extent of the problem of chronic wounds, by supporting the uptake of the best available evidence to manage them and to support education, knowledge translation and mobilization to prevent wounds from developing. We are committed to developing wound care leaders to support a ripple effect throughout our programs. It has been rewarding for us to collaborate together to bring you this conference today. Please take this opportunity to engage with participants, speakers and our sponsors.

Covenant Health is moving forward to develop the structure and mechanisms of care delivery that are needed in the area of skin and wound care. At Covenant Health we recognize that a holistic approach is our priority in caring for persons with wounds along with engaging their social support systems. Our focus is on quality, safe patient care and patient centered care. It is our role to advocate for patients in order to practice true collaboration and ensure that we focus on outcomes of relevance to patients and not just on outcomes of relevance to the healthcare system. Our commitment is to involve, enlist and engage our patients, families and systems in prevention strategies and wound management. Join us as we build capacity, advocate for resources and collaborate together to improve the care of those with wounds and those who care for wounds. Covenant Health welcomes you to our annual wound care conference.
Rooted in a tradition that is 150 years strong, our mission is carried out by inspired men and women - workers, physicians and volunteers - of all faiths, traditions and cultures who believe in the value of compassionate, holistic care.

Our Mission
We are called to continue the healing ministry of Jesus by serving with compassion, upholding the sacredness of life in all stages, and caring for the whole person, body, mind and soul.

Our Vision
Inspired by our mission of service, we will be leaders and partners in transforming health care and creating vibrant communities of health and healing.

Our Values
As a Catholic organization, we are committed to serving people of all faiths, cultures and circumstances, according to our values: Compassion, Respect, Collaboration, Social Justice, Integrity, and Stewardship.

Abstract and Poster Presentations
You are warmly invited to submit abstracts on any aspect of skin and wound care including research, clinical issues, quality improvement and best practice for presentation at this conference.

Moving Forward in Wound Management Conference
Engaging Learners, Motivating Change, and Inspiring Action

Abstract Format
Please limit abstracts to 250-300 words. This does not include the title or the author block. Please do not include identifying information within the body of the abstract. Abstracts will be reviewed blindly by committee members. Abstracts are brief summaries of the overall goal of an offering and the specific ideas or concepts that will be presented, including outcomes and implications for practice. Abstracts will be accepted on a competitive basis. The primary contact will be notified of acceptance/rejection via email the week of August 2nd, 2016. The acceptance/rejection notification email will be sent to the main contact identified in the abstract submission.

Categories include:

- Clinical Research
- Case Series/Study
- Information/Education
- Laboratory Research

Deadline for Abstract submission: July 25th, 2016

Please contact:
Melissa.Crozier@Covenanthealth.ca for more information
There is little doubt that the depictions of illness, disease, and caring found in fiction, poetry, drawing, drama, film, paintings, sculpture, photo voice (taking pictures of health resources) storytelling and narratives are far more powerful than the explanations contained in standard textbooks. Storytelling and visual art are powerful, ancient means of embodying and reinforcing ‘socially shared significances’ that can cut across age, culture, language, dance, music, literacy, and gender barriers. Independently and together, storytelling and visual art have the potential to create shared, embodied understandings through imparting knowledge.

One mechanism through which they may work is by attracting and sustaining interest, and engaging recipients in making meaningful connections. Storytelling and visual art have not been utilized to their full potential in the healthcare environment, however there is increasing interest in their power to motivate, communicate, heal and engage with multiple audiences. Storytellers speak about successes and challenges and about the forces that limit their agency as they envision and seek to create a better and different future. Arts and literature provide a powerful focus for transformative learning experiences. By their very nature they are imbued with possibilities for gathering us around them and for multiple interpretations. They also evoke the kind of discussion and dialogue which allows participants to dwell learningly in ways which call forth new ways of thinking.

Please email Melissa.Crozier@Covenanthealth.ca to share your submission to be presented at the conference. You will be eligible to win a prize but more importantly, you will be able to share your story in the area of skin and wound care.

Entries must be accompanied by an artist bio (maximum 50 words and an artist statement (maximum 200 words). The art piece should be set up for display by the artist on September 8th, 2016 prior to the start of the conference.

Artist Statement

A general introduction to your work, a body of work, or a specific project. It should open with the work’s basic ideas in an overview of two or three sentences or a short paragraph. The second paragraph should go into detail about how these issues or ideas are presented in the work. The final paragraph should recapitulate the most important points in the statement

Deadline: August 2nd, 2016

All Conference attendees are invited to participate! Photographs will be taken*
