

I have the right to:

- ◆ ask for what I want.
- ◆ say no.
- ◆ feel and express my feelings.
- ◆ make mistakes.
- ◆ my own opinions, convictions and values.
- ◆ change my mind or decide a different course of action.
- ◆ protest unfair treatment or criticism.
- ◆ expect honesty from others.
- ◆ be angry with someone I love.
- ◆ say “I don’t know”.
- ◆ negotiate for change.
- ◆ be in a non-abusive environment.
- ◆ ask for help or emotional support.
- ◆ my own needs and personal space and time, even if others would prefer my attention.
- ◆ not have to justify myself.
- ◆ not have to take responsibility for someone else’s behaviour, feelings, or problems.
- ◆ not have to anticipate others’ needs and wishes.
- ◆ not to have to constantly worry about the goodwill of others.
- ◆ choose how to respond to a situation.
- ◆ determine my own priorities.
- ◆ engage socially with my friends.
- ◆ be treated with dignity and respect.
- ◆ happiness.
- ◆ my own wellness.

In order to support another, it is important that I am my main priority. I need to respect my limitations and make every effort to fulfill my own needs.
